> Returns from the northern part of the State show our townsmen, Hon. Geo. S. Sawyer, and N. P. Dooley, both to have received a very flattering vote for the respective offices of Attorney General and State Printer. It was rumored for a time even that Mr. Dooley was elected. This may have been sent out as a joke, but nevertheless, the heavy vote which each received in his own county must serve greatly to soften the pangs of defeat.

On the State ticket in Lincoln county, Eugene Hawell for Secretary of State, and N. P. Dooley, for State Printer, received the largest vote, each 376; and the lowest was Grimes, for Attorney General, who received but 12 votes. On the County, T. J. Osborne, for District Attorney, received the largest vote, 378; and J. J. Manning, for Assemblyman, the lowest, 180.

Druoken Indians caused considerable anoyance to residents in the lower part of town this week. These who dispose of liquor to them can make up their minds that a stay at Carson, at Government expense will result if they are caught, as this matter is now in the bands of the Federal officials and local sympathy will avail noth-

A young men's social and improvement club is to be organized in town to provide means for passing time this winter. The club will occupy the upper floor of the buildin on Main Street, situated immediately above Eisenmann's hardware store.

Inda4 Det 30, 1894 Some Curious Heaven Ideas.

The natives of Botocudes, one of the hottest regions of the earth, beheve that heaven will be a land of cool streams and shady groves entirely cleared of all underbrush and cacti! All desert dwellers, it is said, die expecting to awake in a wooded land supplied bountifully with cold water. You will remember, if you have ever read books of arctic travel, that all natives of the frozen north have paradise pictured as a land of warm sunshine with glowing fires overhung with pots of boiling whale's blubber and easeful couches of fur scattered here and there.

The Caroline islanders, who are passionately fond of liquor, but who are in mortal dread of breaking their necks by falling from one of the millions of cliffs with which their islands abound, believe that paradise will be a land as level as a floor, where one can get drank and not be in constant dread of cracking his cervical vertebræ. -St. Louis Republic.

Miss Anne Bayard, daughter of the new embassador to the court of St. James, is said to have been the most graceful and spirited rider in Washing-

It is a suggestion from a woman who has suffered that the stiff shirt waists and fronts may be buttoned with a hairpin as gloves are when fingers get clumsy.

There are 2,000 or 3,000 trained women nurses in New York whose services are constantly in demand at from $25 to $35 a week, with board and lodging.

Women who can afford it, and who are unhappy if they do not dream upon the latest fashion, are sending their brass bedsteads to be plated with silver.

Graudma's High Shell Comb. Another of grandmamma's old fashioned ornaments is in great demand among her grandchildren since empire gowns and hair parted in the middle and combed down over the ears came in style. That's her high shell comb. Those who have no grandmamma to apply to can of course purchase one, as every-thing used at that epoch is now shown.

The Latest Kind of a Walk.

Another new fad is the heavy step. This is done by lifting each foot in a solemn kind of way and putting it down as if it weighed a ton. A series of these steps may be termed an individual funeral procession. It isn't a fast kind of walk, but it may be depended upon as a means to get there. -Exchange.

The Professional Women's League. The greatest woman's club in the world, as the professional women call their league, met Wednesday afternoon at 29 West Thirtieth street. Wellknown actresses in pretty summer gowns sat side by side with women whose faces as pretty. There was a freemasonry about the assemblage which would have been a revelation to people who think that actresses systematically slander and criticise each other. It might also have been a surprise to these people to see several scores of women, who are not expected to know anything but their art in its narrowest sense, listen with close interest and attention to a thoughtful and serious paper on music and then discuss it intelligently and critically. The paper was read by Miss Marie Merrick, who selected the piano stool as her point of delivery, so that at any time she could turn to the keyboard to illustrate her words, In this manner she gave examples of Supreme Court of the United States. the way to produce certain varieties of tone and then excited a good deal of laughter by showing how not to do it.

At the close of the reading her listeners plied her ith questions, and little impromptu talks were given by Miss. Fannie Gillette and Miss Grace Addison. Miss Katharine Stagg, who was the presiding officer, closed the discussion, and then the company separated into groups, and for an hour conversation flowed at high tide. A reporter found that almost every group was engaged in the discussion of dramatic art, a mighty intelligent discussion, too, with a startling abundance of polysyllables.-New York Letter.

Outdoor Shelters.

Now is the time when we should get "near to nature's heart" and spend our days as much as possible in "the open." The year round dwellers by the country side seem to become so wonted to the changing aspects of nature that their senses are blunted to her beauty, and heedless of the laws of health they frequently shut themselves up in summer almost as much as in winter, shunning the sunbeams as they would an evil influence and avoiding fresh air as they would the choiera.

All this is as it should not be, and in every community some philanthropic woman should organize a fresh air crusade and endeavor to persuade these misguided people not only to admit the blessed amisimo and life giving air to their homes, but also to spend as much time as possible in the open air during the warm weather. A very picturesque shelter can be arranged simply with a large Japanese umbrella. This of course screens from the sun only, unless there be a bank of shrubbery or mayhap a garden wall to the windward. For a lawn fete several of these can be arranged with charming effect, and some bright girl reading this will think at once of a Japanese lawn fete as a delightful substitute for the timeworn strawberry festival. Nothing prettier could be devised for a tennis of her family, for this inducement to lead an outdoor life will bring its return in increased health and happiness.-Demorest's Identily.

Anna Katherine Green at Home.

Mrs. Charles Rohlfs (Anna Katherine Green) and her family are residing in a by little house on Highland avenue, Buffalo. Of course such a distinguished woman could not be exempt very long from special attention. So she was re-cently visited by a live Buffalonian, who expected to find her up to the neck among books and papers, turning out manuscript for her next story like snowflakes. He was disappointed, however, for Mrs. Rohlfs was found minding her children, attending to her home duties. No matter, there was an interesting conversation which found its way into the columns of the Buffalo Inquirer. Here is what was said by Mrs. Rohlfs:

We don't expect to go away from Buffalo this summer. At least we have made no arrangements which include an absence. I like Buffalo and find it cool and comfortable in the summer, We spend our afternoons largely on the tennis court across the way. I am not writing anything this summer. I have only just fairly detached myself from my last book, and my custom is to put a period of at least two years' rest between my stories. My children are of an age when they require a great deal of my attention, and while I have a thousand fancies and ideas flitting through my mind my pen gives tangible shape to none of them.

Rooms Banked In Flowers.

A London weekly notes the growth in extravagance of floral decorations and cites an instance of a ball recently given by an Austraian lady where the ballroom was a mass of mauve and white orchids, while another room was draped in white and yellow orchids. Bowers of roses were in abundance. The stairs were festooned with roses, stephanotis and smilax, tied up with pink and yellow satin ribbons. Even the electric lights peeped bewitchingly from between sprays of yellow and white flowers, and the hostess was dressed to match in white satin and yellow velvet. Flower baskets hung everywhere, and draperies of art silk were looped up with flowers, Two halls, a large staircase and six or seven rooms in all were decorated, and the whole must have cost a small for-

Southern Colleges Open to Women. The cause of woman's education receives new stimulus in the south by the action of the trustees of the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa and of the Tennessee State university in Knoxville in voting to throw open their doors to the daughters as well as the sons of the two states. In the former they must be at least 18 years old. In Tennessee it will be sufficient for them to have reached the age of 17. The women of Knoxville are raising a fut i to build a dormitory for the girls.
